The Oregon Party in Scotland.

E. N. Cooke, Esq., writes an interesting account of the journeyings of the Oregon party through the Highlands of Scotland. We copy from the Record:

We left Glasgow on the morning of the 13th June, by rail, down the valley of the Clyde to Dumbarton Castle, which stands on an isolated rock said to be 260 feet high and one mile in circumference—at high water almost surrounded by the Clyde and the Leaven. From thence we went by rail to Loch Lomond, where we took the steamer for Inversnaid. The lake is studded with thirty or more Islands which are very beautiful and grand, appearing like gems floating on the water. Around are lofty mountains clothed with green. We passed places famous in history and song. Rob Roy's cave was pointed out to us. At Inversnaid we might have climbed Ben Lomond, had we desired; but climbing mountains in this country is "plaid out" with our party.

We went up the lake, on a cold, windy, rainy day, but we enjoyed the trip nevertheless. We went over the mountain by stage to the head of Loch Katrine, where we took the stage for the Trossachs. Here we stopped to inspect this noted pass through the mountains, and trace the noted places described by Scott in his Lady of the Lake. He describes them so infinitely that they could be found without being pointed out. Ellen's Isle, the old Oak on its bank, the silver strand where she received Roderick Dhu in her boat, the rock where he blew his horn, the witches bog, the gorge in the rocks where the "gallant grey" of Fitz James fell exhausted, all can be traced. It is one of the wildest places in Scotland, only equalled by gorges and canyons in the Santiam mountains.

The next day we passed down Loch Achray by stage, then past Loch Vannachar, and the bridge where Fitz James lost sight of his companions in the chase.

"Few were the stragglers following far
That reached the lake of Vannachar;
And when the bridge of Turk was won
The headmost horseman rode alone."

We viewed all these places with great interest, and passed on to Callender, where we took rail for Sterling, a city of twelve thousand inhabitants, situated on a sloping hill, which at its western end, terminates in a precipitous rock 220 feet above the plain, crowned by the castle, long considered the key to the Highlands. It was placed there many years ago; was the residence of a hundred Scottish kings and figures in Scottish history as one of the most eventful of its memorable places.

We were shown the room where James II. slew William, Earl of Douglas, for forming a rebellious association, and throw him out of the window. There are many ancient relics kept here, and one of the finest views in Scotland is to be had from this old castle. To the north, the mountains of Ben Lomond, Ben Achray and others; eastward, the Lammermoor hills; in the foreground, the town and its bridges, the Abbey Craig, the ruined tower of Cambuskenneth Abbey; southward, the field of Bannockburn, only a short distance from the Abbey.

We enjoyed this view for some hours, and then left for Edinburg, which, I will add, is one of the finest cities in the world, with many very fine buildings. We visited many places of note, beginning with Hollyrood palace, the residence of Scottish royalty in olden times. The picture gallery is very large, though but few of the pictures are considered very good. There are many rooms that have traditions attached. Queen Mary's bed chamber contains the bed, furniture, etc., in nearly the same state as when last occupied by the unhappy Queen. On one side is the secret door where the conspirators entered who slew Rizzio, her favorite.

Hollyrood Abbey was founded in 1128, and is now in ruins. The roof has fallen, but the walls remain almost perfect. The Antiquarian Museum contains a large and valuable collection of Celtic and Roman antiquities. There was an axe called the Scottish Maiden, fixed in upright slides and capable of cutting off a head at one blow; John Knox's pulpit from St. Giles; the Solemn League and Covenant, with the inscription of Archbishop Reighton; one of the banners of the Covenant borne at the battle of Bothwell Bridge; the blue ribbon worn by Prince Charles as Knight of the Garter, in 1745, and the ring given him by Flora McDonald at parting. The national gallery of paintings is said to be the finest collection in England or Scotland.

The next day we went to Calton Hill, on which are many fine monuments; one to the memory of Dugald Stewart, and Nelson's monument. The summit is reached by a circular walk. From the summit we had a fine view of the city and country. We visited the new postoffice building, one of the finest in the world, the Princess street gardens, across the High Bridge, 100 feet above the stream. A little out of town is the Dean's Cemetery, on the banks of the Leath, beautifully laid out and planted with lofty trees and flowering shrubs.

Here we noticed the tombs of many famous men of modern times. We visited the Botanic Gardens and the old house of John Knox, where he lived until his death, 1572; over the door is the inscription, "Love God above all, and your neighbor as yourself." Canongate street, once famous is now one of the meanest in the city.

Sunday morning we attended the Episcopal Church, famed for good music, and there saw a large congregation of the fashion and nobility of Edinburg. In the afternoon we attended St. Giles, the ancient church of John Knox.

On Monday, we visited the Castle, a place of much historic interest. It is on a high rock at the head of Castle Hill, precipitous on two side, 380 feet above the level of the sea. From various parts of the fortifications a magnificent view is obtained. The Castle has been the scene of many daring exploits, one of the most romantic of which was the occasion of its recovery from the English in 1313, described by Scott.

In 1673 it was defended by William Kirkaldy, for Mary Queen of Scots, but was taken, and he and his brother hanged. On the door of Queen Margaret's Chapel we saw an old inscription dated 1093. On the walls of the room where Mary gave birth to James the Sixth, who was James the First, of England, is an inscription giving praise to the Savior and thanks to God for the event, October 19, 1566. The original ceiling remains, and the initials J. R. & M. R. are wrought in the panel. In the crown room is the Scottish regalia consisting of a crown, sceptre and sword of state. They are carefully preserved in a small room, where we also saw the Lord Treasurer's rod. These were found in the year 1818 in a strong oaken chest, where they had been deposited in 1707 after the treaty of union was ratified. We could not look on these articles without emotions of singular interest. Their littleness excites wonder at the mighty circumstances and destinies that have been determined by their possession, or the possession of what they represent. The crown retains its beauty, and the jewels are untarnished. It is made of crimson velvet, studded with diamonds. On the bomb battery of the Castle we were shown "Mons Meg," an enormous piece of artillery made at Mons in Brittany, in 1479. It is hooped with thick iron bars, and in some twenty inches diameter, designed to throw rock balls. We left Edinburg, highly pleased with our tour in the Highlands, and with our experience of Scottish city and country.

Taking rail again, we visited Abbotsford and Melrose Abbey, where arrived Tuesday afternoon. The Abbey is an old ruin, once described by Scott, and often described since. The walls and arches are nearly perfect and show the magnificence of its ancient splendor.

Abbottsford is about three miles above the Abboy on the bunks of the Tweed. We were shown through the house. Here we saw Scott's library of twenty thousand volumes, remaining just as he placed them. His arm chair and desk still stand in his study. The house is very beautiful, and the premises are rich in reminiscences of the great author.

We passed through the dounties of Cheshire, Stafford, Leicester, Northumberland, Buckingham, Hartford and Middlesex, and arrived in London the evening of the 20th (June). We have visited Westminister Abbey, inspecting the tombs of kings, nobility and distinguished men whom England delights to honor. It is a majestic pile built of stone in a gorgeous style. The palace of Westminister we also saw, getting a permit free of charge. It is very splendid. Time will not permit a description of the House of Lords and the Hall of Commons, and the many objects of interest.

We obtained tickets to visit the Tower of London and all its treasures. It was with great interest we examined the old dungeons and instruments of death used in former days; the beheading block and ax and instruments of torture. We were shown the entire thing from top to bottom, including the arsenal of small arms now kept in the Tower—weapons of every age. The jewels are very beautiful. There were four crowns shown us: St. Edmund's crown, the Prince of Wales' crown and the Ancient Queen's crown with the royal sceptres.

On Sunday we heard Spurgeon preach. It was truly a wonderful sight; his house will seat 7,000 persons. Mr. Smith and myself were early on hand. Those who have tickets gets seats below, the rest may get seats in the galleries, of which there are two tiers, arranged in circular form as in theatres. We were fortunate in getting good seats, while a great multitude stood in the halls aisles. The house was densely crowded. The sermon was very interesting, plain and well delivered, so that all the vast crowd could hear it. The e is no organ—he lines the hymns and the congregation sings, filling the house with an immense volume of sound. He named the tunes and led them himself.

We have visited the publicgrounds and gardens, which are magnificent. The Zoological Gardens are full of beasts, birds and reptiles, among whom we passed half a day. In passing Buckingham Palace we had a good opportunity to see the Queen, who came out in her carriage and drove past us. One of her daughters was with her. We were astonished at the immense crowd of carriages which we met that afternoon in the Regent's Park, there was a line miles long, of splendid turnouts, following the course of the Queen. We saw carriages with one lady, attended by three servants, two before and one behind, all tapped with white gloves and silk stockings. We left the line in disgust; there was too much glitter and show for our use.

We leave for Paris in an hour, so I must close this letter in haste.

GOOD CROPS AND FREE LABOR.—One of oldest citizens who has been on a flying business trip through the interior of Georgia, and who returned to Savannah, conveys the gra formation that in Appling, Coffee, Irwin, Montgomery and Telfairo counties, the cro ally were in splendid condition. As an evidence of the wonderful ch public sentiment in relation to slaver gons in Georgia within the last yea informant states that out of twenty planters who were recently assemble some important agricultural topics, prior to the war, were in affluent and large slaveholders, emancipa dentally alluded to, and remarkable seem to some people, there was no bowever resurrected and carried it to planters present who did not proc equivocally opposed to the restoratio were it possible to resurrect the inst funct institution. We sincerely believe that we see or hear that were the que revival of slavery to be left to the de Southern people, a very large majority inside with the views of those two prac tical and progressive planters.

GOV. WOODS AT SHASTA.—The follow dispatch from Shasta (Cal.), dated Aug The largest and most enthusiastic pol ing that has assembled here during the years, was held last night. Hon. J. G. surpassed any of his former efforts, and surprised both his political friends and by his eloquence and the matter of his Various questions were propounded to him he frankly and satisfactorily answered. nearly eleven o'clock when Gov. Woods, of Oregon, took the stand, and by his eloquence, pointed arguments, and logical deductions held the audience, variously estimated at from eight hundred to one thousand, spellbound for two hours. His speech is admitted by the opposition to have been eloquent and exhaustive. Union men say it far surpasses any speech ever delivered in this place. During the delivery and at the close of his address, he was greeted with round after round of applause. Judge Hale, of Placer, closed the meeting with a short and pithy address. The enthusiasm was undoubted, and Union men from all parts of the country went home with the determination to work heart and soul for the success of the whole Union ticket.

The Marion, Ohio, Mirror of July 2d, says that Mrs. Richardson, near that town, had missed her little boy and went out into the garden to find him. To her horror she saw the little fellow (18 months old) literally enveloped in the folds of a monster snake. She heroically seized the snake in her hands, and tore it loose. No sooner was it loose, however, than he made for the mother ferociously, attempting to strangle her, as he did the boy. She again seized him, and disengaging herself, killed him with an ax. The little child swelled up for several days, but has finally recovered. The snake was what is called the "blue racer," which does not bite but strangles. It measured ten feet.

The Montgomery, Ala., Sentinel addresses the following to the young chivalry of that part of the country:

Young men should lay aside their fine clothes, and go and take a plow, let the gew-gaws talk, but plow on. There are now idle boys from 12 to 18 years old,

FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 16, 1867.

The Absorbing Topic.

Mr. Rosenheim is in trouble. Having made his bed among the brambles of local politics, he finds it anything but an agreeable pastime to lie in it. We do not propose to discuss the questions involved in the contest for the Marshalship in this city, as the whole subject will probably be submitted to judicial investigation and decided according to the law for such cases made and provided. There are some matters connected with the case which we believe citizens generally would like to have settled, not only for the present but for the future. It would be interesting to know whether the members of the Council have the right of electing each other to the several offices which the Charter authorizes them to choose persons to fill, and whether those who are entrusted with the interests of the city may parcel out these several places of trust and profit among themselves for their own interest and advantage and for the promotion of their own selfish and corrupt designs. If they may elect one of their number Marshal they may elect another, Mayor; another, Auditor; another, Attorney, and so on through the whole list. They may thus get the entire business of the city in their hands, with no checks upon their proceedings and no responsibility for their acts. Under this system the Council might, and probably would, soon become disgracefully corrupt and reduce the city to bankruptcy. We do not say that Mr. Rosenheim may not hold the office of Marshal, or that his associates in the Council may not hold the other offices if their avarice tempts them to seize the plunder; but we do say that if they can do so under the Charter as it now stands, that instrument ought to be amended in this particular, and the sooner the better. If so broad a door is open to official corruption, the people ought to know it at once so that they can take measures to close it. We lay out of consideration the fact that a person holding one office and claiming another, votes for himself for the second office. If a man is so insensible to the dictates of general propriety and cares so little for the respect or opinions of others as to vote for himself, especially when he is acting under the delegated authority of the people and is bound in honor to consider their wishes and interests rather than his own selfish ends,—if he chooses to defy these obligations and vote for himself, probably there is no law to prevent him. Bonaa Bigelow assures the world that the "right to be a tarnal fool belongs to every critter born of woman," and under this impressoriptible right, every man doubtless has the privilege of making himself ridiculous and bringing himself into contempt by casting his ballot in his own favor.

No one imagines that Mr. Rosenheim would have been chosen Marshal had he not been in a position where he could enforce compliance with his demands. He was not selected with a view to his fitness for the place, but was taken very reluctantly by those who voted for him, as the nearest approach they could make to carrying out their scheme. It is no secret that he was elected under an "arrangement." That is universally understood and it is even confessed by those who were engaged in it. Nor does any one believe that Mr Rosenheim is the choice of the people for the position. He is to be foisted upon them be- - It was so agreed by the corrupt leaders of a corrupt party. There is no difference in morals between an "arrangement" of this sort and one which the law recognizes under a more odious name, and punishes with exemplary severity.

We believe there are some attorneys employed in this case. We would recommend them to turn to pages 450-451 of the new Code and see if they cannot find some statutes there which will materially assist their comprehension of this whole transaction. The case is so extremely simple that a couple of sections on the pages cited will elucidate it to any body's satisfaction.

There is one way, and but one, in which this business can be settled. That is by an appeal to proper judicial authority. The fees the Council is making about it is ridiculous and can determine nothing. Its threatening preambles and truculent resolves are tolerably good gammon; nothing more. They may be, and doubtless are, a very good thing to furnish amusement on the streets, but this is the full extent of their influence and power. The Courts are open for all parties to obtain their rights and redress their wrongs, and to the Court this case must go if it is ever settled between the contending parties.

The Grain Crop.

Though the grain crop of Oregon is not so large as was generally anticipated before the dry season set in, still the harvest is proving so productive that there will be a large surplus in all parts of the State. In nearly all localities the yield will be very fair, and in some places the surplus will be quite as great as that of any former year. In Eastern Oregon a less amount was sown than last year, and the drought has affected it somewhat unfavorably; yet there will be an abundance of grain in that quarter to supply the home demand and the mining trade. Indeed it is said that the farmers in that part of the State still have wheat enough on hand of last years' crop to supply all probable demands for a year to come. The consequence is that grain now bears an unusually low price there. It being no longer possible to find a market in the interior for any portion of the surplus grown in Oregon, it becomes a question where a market is to be found. We cannot estimate the amount of wheat this State will have for export, though it is certainly large enough, if marketed at a reasonable price, to distribute an amount of money among the people sufficient to quicken every branch of business and add largely to the general prosperity. But the crops this year are everywhere abundant, and there seems to be little probability of such a demand as was witnessed last year in Eastern and European markets. California has an immense surplus, and standing nearer in the line of commerce to the final market than we, her farmers and shippers must, of course, have an advantage over ours. That State must dispose of her eight or ten million bushels surplus before room can be found in her markets for ours, except at unequal rates. In all parts of the great valley of the Upper Mississippi, the harvest-field and storehouse of the world, the lands are teeming with abudant harvests, and from this great source of supply the markets of Eastern cities and of Europe will be filled to overflowing. The scarcity of former years has necessitated the growing of a greater amount of grain in the South the present season than heretofore, so that the demand from those States will certainly be smaller than it has been for two years past. Europe, it is said, will also import a smaller quantity of breadstuffs this year than last, owing to the superior excellence of her present crops. It is very certain that wheat and flour in the markets of New York and Liverpool will not soon again reach the prices they attained in those markets a few months ago; consequently it must be owned that there is no immediate prospect for so good a market for our surplus as we had last year. This must be the conclusion from a general review of the "situation," and it certainly is not so favorable as could be wished. The Oregon markets will, however, follow those of California, as has been the case heretofore; and if that State can find a way of getting off its surplus, we may hope to dispose of ours.

It don't look well, it don't sound well, and it is not well for a $5,000 a year preacher, who lives in a brown stone front, and indulges in luxuries every day, to preach self-denial to a poor man, or beg pennies from poor little children to send to the heathen.

STATE ITEMS.

A gentleman from Southern Oregon informs the Union that Mr. Harpole, on his way south from Marion county with his family, was struck in the Grave Creek Hills by a ruffian whom he had befriended on the road. Finding out his character, Mr. Harpole told him to leave his company, and when pretending a friendly farewell, he struck Mr. H. in the head with a stone, felling him and leaving him senseless; then the fellow ran into the brush and disappeared. Mr. H. was being cared for at the Grave Creek House.

The Record gets off the following: So many of Price's army wandered to the forks of the Santiam and surrounded Echo, that the town has about capitulated. Possibly on the gala days when the Mossbacks turn out in full force. Their politics are not mixed with any condemnation of the rebellion. Not long since a gentleman visited Scio on professional business, and being a high toned Democrat, upon conservative Union principles he failed to satisfy the sons of Pike who swarmed the street on Wednesday evening July 31st, by a gentleman and lady coming into Pioneer City on horseback, apparently in great haste, making inquiries of every person they met, for the steamboat landing, and being directed to the residence of Capt. Kellogg, they wished to start for Newport immediately; but being assured by the captain that no would start the next morning at 3 A. M., they concluded to wait and enjoy themselves the best they could. After strutting around the town awhile, they became rather uneasy for fear some one would be after them. They concluded to make a clean breast of the business by saying they were on the road to Grand Green. Next morning they took passage on the steamer Pioneer for Newport, where they engaged the Rev. P. Kellogg, and Capt. Hoxey, of the schooner Mist. They then crossed the Bar, and the ceremony over, they returned man and wife, the lady remarking, "It was rather a rough wedding tour."

LETTERS FROM THE INTERIOR OF THE STATE.

"TOLL HOUSE," SISKIYOU MOUNTAINS,
August 10th, 1867.

"SODA SPRING"

Is about ten miles southeast of Ashland, on Emigrant creek. This spring is an object of interest, and a source of health and pleasure. It belongs to Dr. Caldwell, who is well prepared to accommodate visitors, health and pleasure seekers. The spring is very clear, and sparkles with myriads of little globules bubbling from the fountain. The water is strongly tinctured with soda, and has a pleasant flavor, and is said to contain valuable medicinal properties. We found several invalids there, drinking its waters. Quite a number of persons go there now, in summer, and the time is not far off when this will be a fashionable resort.

As I was so near, I concluded to see the southern boundary of our State, so I took the stage at Ashland for the "Toll Gate," kept by the Applegate Bros., on the Siskiyou mountains. At the foot of the mountains we halted at the "Mountain House," to exchange horses. This house is kept by Mr. Casey, who has a fine farm and broad pastures, kept green by irrigation, upon which numerous droves of cattle and sheep are fed, preparatory to ascending the mountains. At the Toll House I was joined by Gen. E. L. Applegate and two of his brothers, and at 5 P. M. we sat out for on the summit of the Siskiyou mountains, distant about ten miles. We packed our luncheon and blankets on a horse, leaving us nothing but our guns and spy-glass to carry. At dark we camped by a spring, in the abode of panthers and grizzly bears. In the night we heard the fierce scream of a panther, but nothing molested us. We arose at 3 o'clock, and after taking coffee, set off on foot for the rock, still about four miles ahead. Our intention was to be there in time to witness the sun rise, but the brush was so thick and the ascent so difficult, that before we reached our destination the sun had been shining over the land an hour. Just before we reached the summit, we drove a huge grizzly bear from his bed, and as he fled through the thicket one of our party fired at him, but the shot did not take effect, and away he went crashing through the brush, over the summit and down into California. We reached the top of the rock at half past six A. M., quite exhausted by fatigue. This giant rock, according to the best estimate yet made, stands precisely in the 42d north parallel, and consequently the boundary line between Oregon and California runs over the top of it. It stands on the summit of the Siskiyou mountains, and, at its base, is nearly or quite one-fourth of a mile in diameter, and towers one thousand feet above the ground upon which it stands. We made the ascent from the north side, through a winding canyon or stairway, which reaches to the top. From the top of this magnificent pile, distance only obstructs the vision, and it seems like the whole world was spread out at your feet. You look down on the great Klamath country on the East, Siskiyou county, California, on the South, the Coast Mountains on the West, and Jackson county on the North. Away to the North-east, the great Cascade range stretches away towards the North until lost in distance, while the far off Sierra Nevadas fade away in the Southward. Sixty miles South stands Shasta Butte (the rival of our Hood), piercing the sky like a monument of Alabaster. Yreka lies hid among her hills, but the little town of Cottonwood, California, gleams in the valley below, and the Klamath river meanders through the mountains at our feet and glides on to the sea. Pilot Rock was the great beacon or guide-board to the early travelers of this country, enabling them to find the pass in these mountains. The top of the rock is about 6,500 feet above the sea, and a stone thrown from its top falls over one thousand feet before it strike the earth. We amused ourselves by rolling huge stones down this frightful precipice, and it was grand to see them bound and bear them thundering down the deep abyss. Before we left, we "laid a corner stone" and built a monument, and deposited—not a "bottle of whisky," nor "green backs," but simply a paper bearing our names and the date of our visit. While we were laying the "corner stone," the General made a speech appropriate to the occasion, and characteristic of "Lish." An eagle has built her nest in a niche, near the top of the rock, which also inhabits alone, for I saw no other signs of animal life. The juniper trees on the top of this mountain are stunted and bear the marks of years and storms, and the oaks are more dwarfs, only two or three feet high; yet they bear acorns. The Siskiyou mountains are the chain connecting the Coast and Cascade ranges. The road across this mountain is first rate, and passes through the lowest gap in the range.

CHANGED HIS KEEPER.—The Milwaukee Wisconsin furnishes another instance of the outwitting of a sane man by a crazy man. It says:

Recently a Milwaukee police officer was detailed to take an insane man to an asylum. The man went along quietly until the end of the journey was reached, and instead of being delivered to the officers of the asylum, very quietly delivered the astonished officer, who, before he had an opportunity for an explanation, found himself locked up in a cell, and was told that a straight jacket awaited him if he made any demonstrations. The insane man went away, having done his work in a very systematic manner, and was very soon after boasting of what he had done. The officer, as soon as he could get the manager of the asylum to listen to him, made an explanation and sent for an acquaintance, who very soon set matters to rights. Search was made for the insane man, and he was found detailing his exploits, and very soon taken care of. The officer thinks he will look a little sharper next time.

THE FIRST CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.—If the Southern States had accepted that amendment they might have been in the Union now; but they thought proper to reject it, and they must accept the consequences. With its rejection the last hope of the copperheads, says the N. Y. Herald, passed away, and now they may as well prepare to go to their graves and have a roaring Irish wake over them.

They are enjoying a sensation in Liverpool, where a youth of seventeen, disguised as a young lady, has, by the connivance of the principal, been residing for a year past in a fashionable girls' boarding-school, patronized exclusively by the aristocracy.

NASBY.—They tell of one of the unterrified at Bridgeport (Conn.) who was especially eager to see the Presidential party, exclaiming, as he rushed up to the car: "I don't care shucks about Johnson; it's Parson Nasby that I want to see."

The N. Y. Citizen learns that Hon. Wood got hit with a red-hot poker, about ten days ago—a "draw-poker," in fact—to the tune of forty five thousand dollars, the winner being a prominent and respected member of the upper house of the Common Council. The interesting information is added, that "a hand of three aces against three queens" warmed the poker.

OWYHEE MINING ITEMS.

We clip from the Avalanche of the 10th inst.:

The Whisky Ledge is being put in the condition of a paying mine, and so far as workout is really a profitable mine. About five and one half tons of the ore were sold at the mine, and the buyer made money by the transaction. We are not accurately informed, but believe it to be no exaggeration to say this lot of ore gave a gross yield of near two hundred dollars per ton. The vein improving as it is developed—both in size and richness. The owners manage the working and recently built a new house at the mine and are putting the works in better shape.

THE ORO FINO MINE

Is yielding richer ore than ever before. The last run of seventy tons cleaned up $10,000—over $140 per ton, and there is much more of the same class of ore in sight in the mine and out. It is placed beyond doubt that the Oro Fino stands at the head of rich quartz mines. The company is in perfectly easy circumstances and has the ready means to meet all just demands against it, and with the rich ore in sight will pay the stockholders fine dividends this year. The value of this mine can hardly be exaggerated. A few weeks more work will enable the Company to supply a couple of mills and the Morning Star too.

FLINT.

The shaft on the Forest ledge is down over eighty feet, and the past week very rich ore was struck in a vein of four feet and it increasing. Of course the owners are much pleased, and will push the work with additional vigor. Some of the ore brought over last Tuesday is tinged with ruby silver and does not bear a refractory appearance.

THE WAR OF THE ROSES.—The excitement about the Marshalship of this city, ran very high, upon the streets yesterday. The evening before, though the Council when in session, required Mr. Hoyt to go outside the bar, thus refusing to recognize him as Marshal, he immediately upon the adjournment returned and took charge of the books, papers and other property, Mr. Rosenheim and his deputy retiring. Yesterday morning as usual, Mr Hoyt was present in the Court room, and proceeded with the execution of the duties of the office. It was stated on the authority of men who have a reputation for truthfulness that during the forenoon, Mr. Rosenheim appointed, with the approval of the Mayor, several special policemen and that it was his intention to forcibly eject Mr. Hoyt and take possession of the office. During the day we made the direct inquiry of Mayor Chapman whether Mr. Rosenheim had made such appointments and received for reply that he had no knowledge of it. The report, however, gained wide circulation and credit and naturally enough created much excitement. Considerable crowds of men congregated about the passage to the court room and on the neighboring street corners to watch the turn of events. Sheriff Stitzel, believing that a riot or row might take place, took measures to have a strong posse within immediate call in case its services should be necessary to preserve the peace. Meantime Mr. Hoyt quietly kept possession of the court room and transacted the usual business as calmly as though no ferment existed on the outside. During the day Mr. Rosenheim appeared in the court room and stated to the Recorder that he had made his "first arrest." Judge Hoffman talked with him a moment or two in relation to the matter, as though he were simply a private citizen and had no concern in it. Mr. Rosenheim shortly went away and we hear that he subsequently took the prisoner before Esquire Anderson, where the matter was settled without judicial intervention. In the early part of the day the Mayor called upon the Recorder to speak of the action of the Council the evening before. He asked the Recorder if he had read in the papers the resolutions adopted by the Council. Judge Hoffman replied that he had and asked if the Mayor had called upon that business. Receiving an affirmative response from the Mayor, the Judge said that he did not wish to have anything to say upon that subject. The law prescribed his duties and he should decline to receive any communication from the Mayor or the Council in relation to what had been done. The interview was soon closed. Toward night, the warlike appearance gradually faded away and the city again resumed its wonted quiet. It is rumored, however, that the battle will open again at 9 o'clock this morning.

THE AMERICAN FREEDMEN'S COMMISSION.—The Rev. Dr. Haynes, Secretary of the American Freedmen's Commission, for the Pacific coast, informs us that considerable time he has been in this State, and his limited opportunities of speaking with the people, he has met with encouraging success. Although he has only had meetings in Portland and Astoria, he has forwarded to the Treasurer of the Commission, $100, as an earnest of what is to be done when he is able to visit the interior of the State. Parties contemplating transportation, have passed the agent from point to point free of charge, thus manifesting their good will to the cause in which he is engaged. One of the bankers of this city forwarded the funds received at par. We have met with the following item from an eastern paper, which may serve to answer one important practical question, and we are assured that the success of the commission which it indicates, is only a fair specimen of what the various branches are doing. Rev. O. McKay, distributor of supplies, appointed for the Teacher's Committee of the New York branch, writes as follows under date, Petersburg, Va., April 22d:

E. G. ESTES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: I have received during the months of March and April supplies of clothing to the amount of $1,823; money $199 34; spades and hoes, $225; making a total of $4,004 34; which, added to that of January and February, $2,396 86, makes a total for the winter of $6,401 20. Of the clothing, about $1,000 worth came from Bangor, Me., and a very large proportion of the remainder from England; $1,800 having been received from Mr. Cadbury, of Philadelphia. Of the money, $50 came from the Freedmen's Aid Association of Bangor, and $84 70 from the Central Church Sabbath school of that city. The last mentioned donation was sent in response to an appeal I made to the school for aid in carrying on a colored school which I established in the country, five miles from Petersburg, taught by a colored teacher. During the month for which it has been in operation, it has been an entire success, having about seventy in the day school, from 12 to fifteen at night, and one hundred in the Sabbath school. The balance of the money not required for that purpose has been mainly expended in seed-potatoes and garden seeds. The supplies have been divided as far as it was possible to do so, among the most needy of the sixteen counties composing this district for which there has been no other gratuitous distribution of clothing for women and children.

BILL BEACHY'S ROUTE.—Mr. Shepherd arrived last evening from Silver City, Idaho, in five days. He brings with him copies of posters issued and scattered all over Idaho and California by Bill Beachy, announcing very material reductions in fare over his route. Tickets are advertised, from Silver City to Hunter's Station for $50; from Silver City to Sacramento, $70 and from Silver City to San Francisco for $75. The schedule time is advertised, "through in less than five days." We mention this matter to show what efforts are being made to induce the travel between Idaho and California, over the Beachy route. This reduction in fare and time will have a very attractive appearance to the miner who contemplates a trip to San Francisco this fall, and unless an extraordinary effort be made on the Columbia route, to counteract the effect of it, will insure to Beachy, as many passengers each trip as his coaches can carry. That these inducements are partly false, in fact, there is but little doubt; but the appearance of things will catch many a passenger. A couple of men who went over the road recently from Hunter's Station to Idaho, and who arrived in this city a few days since, represent that the road and the fare are hard, and that they would not make the trip again, if given free tickets. They say they would rather go by way of the Columbia though it might require double the time and money. Thus, men who have ju ted over the route may shun it thereafter; but of the hundreds who are going to San Francisco this fall, perhaps only a few know anything about the route. The others will be very likely to be caught by Bill Beachy's attractive offers. Could the time by way of the Columbia, be shortened to eight or even ten days, and the fare reduced to about the same figures, there could be little doubt that most persons would prefer to make the journey this way. It is for the managers of this route to determine whether they will allow Bill Beachy to steal a march on them.

RETURNED FROM YAQUINA.—Our friend Bliss has returned from Yaquina, where he and Charley Church and Charley Pope went for clams and otesters. Bliss says they got 'em both. The clams they liked; the oysters they didn't. In his description of the scenery, Bliss describes one mountain as a specimen, giving the height as, say 1000 feet, with the distance through, from base to base is, say 300 feet; "but the land on it, where there is any, is good." The party went to sea while there, on board the little schooner. Bliss says that was very nice for a while, but the party returned to the bay in a wrecked condition. We learn that the gentle exiles purchased by Bliss and his fellow travelers were decidedly astonishing to the natives, and that when the party left the bay, it was believed, not an Indian, squaw or papoose could be found within twenty miles of Newport, though there are usually quite a number living in the neighborhood. We rather think the b'hoys had a high old time.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The steamship Continental sailed for San Francisco at 7 P. M. yesterday with the following list of passengers: Col. A. Hayward, wife, daughter and servant, John P. Couch, L. Sternbach, wife and three children, Mr. Morgan, wife and children, W. Perry N. Merrill, J. Copeland, S. Blum and wife, M. Kohland, L. C. Wicks, J. A. Winburg, J. Harris, Chas. Fishel, J. W. C. T.

PEACHES WANTED.—A prominent dealer in produce informs us that the peach crop will be very short in this valley and that there will be a demand for them at prices much stronger than usual. Those who are fortunate enough to have a crop will doubtless be able to realize a handsome profit, if they get their fruit into market in good condition. Peaches should be gathered and packed in small boxes while yet a little green. If ripe, or if packed in large boxes, they will inevitably receive damage in transportation.

FREIGHT FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The Continental, yesterday, took the following freight: 6,691 qr sks flour, 452 sks middlings, 23 bales wool, 1 bale mdse, 5 cases mdse, 4 trunks mdse, 5 pkgs furniture, 18 cases boots and shoes, 60 cases bacon, 24 gunnies bacon, 13 rolls leather, 2 bbls currants, 108 bbls salmon, 1 hf bbl liquor, 35 hf bbls headings, 230 hf bbls salmon, 140 hf bbls dried fruit, 27 hf bbls butter, 22 qr bbls butter, 10 bxs fruit, 22 bxs eggs, 97 dry hides.

TREASURY SHIPMENT.—The amounts of treasure shipped to San Francisco per steamship Continental, yesterday, were as follows:

Wells, Fargo & Co	$80,000
Goldsmith Bros.	10,000
Ladd & Tilton	10,000
Total	$110,000

FROM ASTORIA.—The U. S. Grant, Capt Kerns arrived from Astoria late last evening with sixteen passengers and a good freight. Capt Kerns informs us that a man named Post was severely hurt at Astoria on last Monday, by the falling of a scantling from a scaffold. The timber struck him on the left side of the mouth and split his lip to the bone down to the under side of the chin. No bones were broken, however.

RECORDER'S COURT.—In the Recorder's Court yesterday morning, Mary Mack had an examination on the charge of larceny of money from a man named Sykes. She was held to answer in the sum of $500. The complainant being a non-resident, was required to give bail for his appearance at court as a witness. The defendant failing to give the required bail was committed to jail.

FROM BELOW.—The steamer Ranger, on Wednesday, towed the bark Ravel to Oak Point, where she is to complete cargo with lumber. The Ranger brought back a considerable lot of salmon from Oak Point, and a lot of lumber from St. Helens.

WEATHER FRIGHTS.—The Senator brought down from Oregon City, yesterday, 3,171 qr sks flour, 49 boxes fruit and 4 boxes flowers.

INDIAN DEPREDATIONS.—Mr. Shepherd who arrived here yesterday reports that on Monday night, twelve horses were stolen by Indians from a ranch about six miles from La Grande. It was reported there, the same night, that the Indians had killed three men in the neighborhood of Mormon Basin. The men were out prospecting and were stolen upon and shot.

The Marshalship.

PORTLAND, Aug. 15.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

H. L. Hoyt retaining possession of the Marshal's office, elected from our City Fathers, on the occasion of their last meeting, several belligerent resolutions and a frothy speech from Councilman Halleck. The resolutions speak for themselves. No short hand reporter being present, Mr. Halleck's speech will be known to posterity only by tradition. I was fortunate enough to hear the peroration, and a more withering denunciation of secession never fell from the lips of a war-stained veteran. I was indeed surprised, and looked at the member closely to make quite sure that he was the same Halleck who, when secession was an issue, gave it his approval. But as secession was not the question before the Board, I supposed Halleck's gasconading was intended (like some of Beriah's editorials) for buncombe.

Nevertheless the faction in the Council, who are temporarily in the majority, have their backs up and will probably try to frighten some one. Whether they will succeed, cannot be a difficult question to those who understand the situation. Did citizens believe that Rosenheim was elected by a majority of the Council in a legitimate manner, Marshal Hoyt would find no encouragement in attempting to retain the office. But such is not the case. It is a notorious fact that he was elected to the Council by the Union party as a party man, and equally notorious, that at the late election for municipal officers, he proved recreant to his pledges and went over to the Democracy for a purpose. It is further notorious, and can be proved, beyond a doubt, (if denied) that he voted for himself in order to secure the requisite majority. Rosenheim has not, therefore, been elected Marshal of the city, but is equally with those who have been parties with him in suspicious transactions about the city offices, in a dangerous position to play the game of bluff.

I ask, Mr. Editor, section 602 of the code of criminal procedure, and leave to those whose duty it is to enforce the law to determine whether they will do so in case its provisions have been violated, feeling satisfied that with every honest man, irrespective of party, there can be but one opinion.

"If any judicial, legislative or executive officer shall corruptly accept or receive any gift, gratuity, valuable consideration or thing whatever, or any promise thereof, or any promise to do or cause to be done any act beneficial to such officer, with the understanding or agreement, expressed or implied, that such officer will give his vote, opinion, decision or judgement in a particular manner, in any matter, question, duty, cause or proceeding which there is or may by law come or be brought before such officer, or with the understanding or agreement that such officer will, in his official capacity act in a particular manner, or so as to produce or prevent any particular result, such officer, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the Penitentiary not less than five nor more than fifteen years."

PERFECTLY EXHILARATING.—Such were our feelings as we stepped into the Music and Art Gallery of W. T. SHERMAN, on First street, a few days since, and listened to the delightful tones and harmony, which came from one of Mason & Hamlin's Cabinet Organs. Even the soft breathing flute tones to the thundering bass of the pipe organ, all was equally free and sweet. And why is it other makers cannot produce instruments like those? Mason & Hamlin were the first to introduce the Cabinet Organ, and have gained such world-wide notoriety that it requires the work of two large factories to supply the demand for these valuable instruments.

The acknowledged superiority of his manufacture, which commands here, as in the markets of the Interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those

Jeff. Davis and the Andersonville Murders.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The main facts on record in Gen. Holt's office, touching the connection of Jefferson Davis with the Andersonville murders are so easily stated that I shall give a paragraph to them, lest they may not fall under your observation:

The rebel idea of killing off prisoners so as not to be obliged to meet them in battle, developed before the Andersonville pen was made. Robert Ould, the Commissioner of Exchange, said in a letter to Gen. Winder, "The arrangement I have made works largely in our favor. We got rid of a set of miserable wretches and receive in return some of the best material I ever saw." The "miserable wretches" being useful, a plan was devised to increase the number, and it was stated by a rebel surgeon (not in evidence, however,), that when Winder got his orders to make the Andersonville pen, Davis told him to locate it as near hell as he could, and Winder always insisted that he had succeeded exactly. It was filled with prisoners early in 1864 and put in the hands of Wirtz. Its horrors began at once, but Winder did not go near it till June. Meantime Wirtz reported to the authorities at Richmond and got his instructions thus. In May there were 12,000 prisoners in the eighteen acres enclosed, and the deaths were so frequent and resulted so manifestly from the ill treatment of the prisoners that an officer of the rebel Government reported the facts and earnestly protested against any more prisoners being sent there. It is on proof that this report was indorsed "noted" by the Secretary of War, showing that it had been carefully read. Colonel Parsons, in his testimony, states that, moved by a desire to mitigate the hardships of the place, he ordered several trains of lumber to build shelter for the prisoners, whereupon he was removed, and the lumber used to build quarters outside, but not a board suffered to go within. The removal took place immediately on the arrival of General Winder from Richmond at his first visit in June. The prisoners had then been increased to 19,000 (more than a thousand to an acre)

Many witnesses testified to hearing Wirtz and Winder say that they were doing more for the Confederacy that General Lee, and that they were doing the work expected of them at Richmond. In August the number of prisoners was increased to over 32,000, and Colonel Chandler, an officer of the General Inspector's Department, after reporting the horrible condition of the prisoners, recommended the removal of General Winder and the appointment of some one "who does not advocate deliberately and in cold blood the propriety of leaving them (the prisoners) in their present condition until their number has been sufficiently reduced by death to make the present arrangements suffice." This reached Richmond on the 17th of August, and Adjutant-General Cooper indorsed it: "The prison is a reproach to us as a nation. Colonel Chandler's recommendation is concurred in." The Assistant Secretary of War also indorsed on the paper: "These reports show a condition of things at Andersonville which call very loudly for the interposition of the Department, in order that a change may be made." But after Davis and his War Minister had consulted about the matter, General Winder, instead of being removed, was put, by Order No. 84, dated October 21st, in command of all the prisons east of the Mississippi, and the work of starvation and murder went on without further attempt to stop it to the close of the rebellion.—Cor. Toledo Blade.

A HOME THRUST.—When President Johnson was received by the Connecticut House of Representatives yesterday, Mr. Ives, the Speaker, made an address at him in which he said:

Although we may differ as to public policy, we recur with infinite pleasure to the noble and patriotic attitudes assumed by you during the dark hours when our country was in peril.

We can imagine that if Andrew Johnson has any sensibility left, he must have felt keenly the sting implied by this sharp Yankee contrast between his attitude when he was chosen as the standard bearer of the Republican party, and that in which he stands now—a traitor to principle, a deserter of friends, a conspirator with those who have combined to wrest away the public liberties.

It was a good deal like taking from the gutter a ragged, bleer-eyed sot, covered all over with mire and tottering in the last stages of moral and physical decay, and reclothing him of the days when he used to wear good clothes, and dwell in a fine mansion, and move in respectable society, and attend the church, and enjoy the honors due a respectable citizen.

Andrew Johnson was a patriot in East Tennessee as was Benedict Arnold during the Northern expedition. So was Aaron Burr until defeated, it seemed him in the Presidential race. And the ghosts and shadows of their histories present no stronger contrast than is furnished by the career of the man who now disgraces the office of Chief Magistrate.—Albany Exc. Journal.

THE PROVINCE OF NEWSPAPERS.—It is unreasonable to expect that the public press will always publish such things as we, individually, shall like. A person of strict religious habits and taste would be offended if he sees in a newspaper the account of a prize fight, or something obscene and gratuitous. He forgets that the newspaper is but the reflection of the world at large; and if he is so fastidious he must retire altogether from life, for in a single street he will find, at any given hour of the day, what will offend almost all his senses. He need not read what he considers objectionable, in like manner, he need not eat at a table d'hote any highly seasoned dish. He might not like venison and game, high. Let him order something of his taste—a veal cutlet without sauce. But my Lady Godiva may like a few of the indecencies of the season, and Lord Clorenty may have stomach for anything. While the tone of a newspaper is moral, the public cannot complain. The music of the organ may be of the purest character, though the organ itself may sometimes show symptoms of the mud and filth that are picked up by, or scattered upon them throughout the ramblings of the day. To the pure all things are pure, and to find fault with a newspaper for every "miss offense" is to display the hypocrisy of a prude or the silliness of an ignoramus.—London Examiner.

GOOD FOR FORTY TUNES.—The Shelby (Ind.) Courier says:

Organs in the church have become very fashionable of late. In almost every church you go into, you find one of these instruments. A friend of ours, who lives in a neighboring village, related to us yesterday an amusing incident which occurred in their church. He said, to be in fashion, they must have an organ. The congregation could not afford to pay an organist, so they got a self-acting organ, a compact instrument, well suited to the purpose, and constructed to play forty tunes. The sexton had instructions how to set it going and how to stop it; but, unfortunately, he forgot the latter part of his business; and after singing the first four verses of a hymn, before the sermon, the organ could not be stopped; and continued playing two verses more; then just as the clergyman completed the words, "Let us pray," the organ again clicked and started another tune. The sexton and others continued their exertion to find the spring, but no one could put a stop to it; so they got two of the stoutest men in the church to shoulder the perverse instrument and they carried it down the aisle of the church, playing away, into the churchyard, where it continued clicking and playing until the whole forty tunes were finished.

OUR RED BRETHREN AMUSING THEMSELVES IN TEXAS.—A letter from Texas states the Indians have adopted a new method of treating their male white prisoners—that of skinning them alive! During the last month some three thousand head of cattle, intended for Fort Sumner, in New Mexico, were forcibly seized and driven off by other Southern Camanches or Kickapoos, and that one of the unfortunate herders was afterwards found with his head completely severed, and his body skinned down to the waist! The supposition was that he was skinned alive, which is a new feature in the eccentricities of Indian barbarity. The presumption may also be indulged in that the poor fellow's hide was tanned for useful, or what the savages may deem ornamental purposes. There will be feasting and frolicing among the Indians over such a haul, for the cattle of the Llano and San Saba region are among the fattest and finest in Texas. What the soldiers at the New Mexican posts may say about it when the beef comes up missing, is more than I can tell; they will probably be compelled to patch out and put up with rusty pork yet awhile.

REGISTRATION IN VIRGINIA.—Hon. John C. Underwood writes to the Washington Chronicle, "During the past three weeks the registration of voters in Virginia has been nearly half completed. 100,000 names being enrolled. of those, 55,000 are colored and 15,000 white, and of the latter at least 10,000 are Radical Republicans, so that we now stand: Republicans, 65,000; rebel sympathizers or Conservatives, 35,000; majority, 30,000.

"There has been much more enthusiasm and activity among Republicans than with their opponents, and the proportions of those to be registered will be greatly changed, though I do not believe the majority now secured will be much reduced."

Who were the first newspaper subscribers of whom we have any account? Cain, who took A Bell's Life, and Joshua, who ordered the Sun to be stopped.

DR. LIVINGSTONE'S FATE STILL DOUBTFUL.—An extra of the Times of India, dated the 14th June, contains the following letter:

BOMBAY, May 14, 1867

Sir: One of the missing sepoys, twenty first Regiment Native Infantry, or Marine Battalion, who accompanied Dr. Livingstone's expedition, returned this day from Zanzibar. News had been received from the Doctor. He was alive and well, and the havildar, Twenty first Regiment Native Infantry, or Marine Battalion, and the Nassick boys were with him. S THACKER, Comd'g Twenty first Reg't Native Infantry.

Referring to the previous article from the Times of India, Sir Roderick Murchison says

We who see many reasons for disbelieving Mousa, which I will now repeat, cling to the hope that although he may have met with a difficulty in the opposition of the marauding Zulu Kaffirs, Livingstone may have forced his way through them while Mousa and his Johanna men fled. Now if the search party should ascertain that he went on from the supposed fatal spot, our great anxiety respecting him will have ceased. For knowing that he formerly crossed and re-crossed Africa when attended by a few Makalolo only, we can have no fear that with his present band of negroes he may have reached Lake Tanganyika, and he now determining the great problem of the true water-shed of southern Africa.

COMMISSIONER WELLS.—The Treasury Department has information that the mission of the Commissioner of the Revenue Service, Hon David A. Wells, to Europe, whore he is now gathering facts touching the revenue experience of other nations and the comparative cost of production, is likely to be a great success. In Great Britain every facility has been granted by the Government, and the leading manufacturers in all parts of the Kingdom have thrown open their works without reserve. Mr. Wells has been accompanied thus far, under instructions from the State Department, in part by Consul Dudley, of Liverpool, and in part by Consul George L. Abbott, of Sheffield. At very many of the centers of manufacturing visited, in order to have the results of the inquiry above suspicion, the proprietors have allowed the Commissioner to inspect and take copies of the pay rolls, and to have private and unreserved communication with their workmen Mr. Wells anticipates that he will be able to lay before Congress at its winter session the most complete statistical summary of the condition and cost of European production ever made public.

NORTHERN SOLDIERS.—"Alabama" Semmes, the rebel without a star of bravery on his record, and the pirate without a spark of generous mercy, pays Northern soldiers the following compliment in a late issue of his newspaper, the Memphis Bulletin:

"There never was such a set of thieves let loose upon any people, in any war, within the last five hundred years, as accompanied the Northern armies which invaded these Southern States. It is hard to say what they did not steal. They invaded the sanctuary of the private dwelling, and stripped it of all its portable valuables, not even excepting the wearing apparel of women and children, and the books from the library shelves. They punctured yards and gardens with their ramrods, for hidden treasure, and even hung up old men and women until they were nearly dead, in the hope of making them reveal the hidden places of their supposed valuables."

The New York World says that the average attendance of pupils in the common schools of Kentucky, during the year 1866, was 104,481, and this is an increase over the average of 1865 of 60,827! So it seems that in the latter year only about 44,000 children were attending common schools in that State. That would be less than one twenty-fifth part of its entire population, and less than one-fifth of the average school attendance throughout the United States in 1860. The war, no doubt, had much to do with this. But in 1866 the attendance was only about two-fifths of the general average. Does this account for the fossilism of Kentucky, we wonder?

The New York Independent thinks that if any criminals ever deserved hanging Jeff. Davis and Maximilian had a better title than any in the world to that fate. But then the Independent is opposed to capital punishment in all cases. It don't approve of that sort of penalty, but so long as the death penalty is inflicted in Mexico and in this country, it can't understand on what principle of justice the great criminals are to be justified or allowed to escape the punishment prescribed by law for a single offence.

Some emigrants, passengers on a Mississippi steamboat recently, found some bags of beans among the freight, and helped themselves to a bountiful supply for soup. The beans were castor oil beans, consigned to a druggist, and caused a decided commotion among the thieves.

RHEUMATISM CURED!

PORTLAND, August 10th, 1867

I HAVE SUFFERED A LONG TIME WITH RHEUMatic Pains, and until now have I had nothing to relieve me. To-day Mr. J. G. Rennick called at my store and assured me that he could cure me in a few minutes. I thought he was mistaken, and laughed at him, but I said to my surprise that a few moments after the application of the SITKA LINIMENT, I was relieved of my pains, and I am now improving very fast. I now believe it will cure me in a few days. For further information call at my store, No. 182 First street.

SPRAINED WRIST CURED.

PORTLAND, August 10, 1867

I was at Mr Wegner's store on Saturday, August 10th, and seeing the magic effect of J G RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, in his case, concluded to try it on my wrist which has been sprained for some time. I found relief inside of FIVE MINUTES from its application, and it is now perfectly well. My wrist was so swelled I could not shut my fingers. I believe it will cure any pain in a short time. I will give any further particulars to whoever calls on me

Tumor Removed!

PORTLAND, August 10th 1867.

I HAVE USED RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT for pain and swelling of the gums and cheek. I had a large tumor forming on the gum which arose from killing the nerve in my tooth and caused me a dreadful pain which prevented me from sleep for several nights. I applied the Liniment, and to my surprise, it removed the lump and eased the pain so that it is now as well as the other cheek. My cheek was fearfully swollen. This was done in the presence of two witnesses.

PORTLAND, August 12th, 1867.

For five years I have suffered with a pain or weakness in my back, which at times was dreadful. I often thought I could not bear such torment. But I got a bottle of RENNICK'S SITKA LINIMENT, and with one rub it perfectly cured me. I can recommend it to any lady suffering from pain in any way, for I am convinced it will at once remove them
